TABLES – IN DETAIL

Not all products are equal, it's the little details that really count.

*"The details are not the details.
They make the product"*
– Charles Eames

This collection features solid oak tops from a carefully selected grade of oak which has been inspected to remove large knots and other defects, ensuring a clean and modern look whilst still capturing the characteristics oak is well known for.

All tops are then finished with a softly rounded edge to give an elegant look.

By carefully planning the position of our legs and size of our inserts we have created tables that allow you to comfortably accommodate those extra guests, without straddling a leg.

KNOW YOUR PRODUCT

For more reasons why the detail is important...

For a well-built product you have to start by using good quality material.

Therefore, we only use quality hardwoods to ensure you don't experience any staining from sap or knots falling out, while allowing a smooth finish with minimum grain appearance (But it is still wood and each piece will be slightly different).

We know it is important to ensure stability in large panels, we ensure this by using a hardwood plywood.

All Materials are carefully sourced to ensure our furniture complies with EUTR, meaning you can relax knowing the timber is ethically and sustainably sourced to benefit the future of our forests.

Then ensure it is constructed and assembled the best way possible.

Wood is a natural material so its important to work with traditional techniques when constructing furniture that have been mastered over 100's of years.

For strength and stability, we use mortice and tenon joints in our hardwood frames on the tops of our tables and the frames of all our cabinets. Dovetail joints are used on all drawers to help them stay strong for a lifetime of use.

Finally, we finish the product in one of our environmentally friendly and hardwearing finishes,

Whether you pick a paint or a lacquer these are both water based finishes which mean they are easier to repair and friendlier to use. Other benefits also include no chemical smells in your house, longer lasting protection and better UV protection to help fight the effects of the sun.

Natural Monocoat Oil is no ordinary oil, this is why we don't just call it an oil. To achieve the durable protection this finish offers, it bonds with the wood fibres at a molecular level unlike any traditional oils or waxes. As well as being the first oil to be VOC free.

It increases the natural resistance of the wood to help it stand up to spills, marks and scuffs. Put simply, it makes life better for your furniture, and hopefully for you too.

It is easy to maintain, highly durable and water-repellant. It doesn't contain any water or solvents and is based on natural ingredients so that it's completely safe to use and environmentally friendly. But most importantly it looks great...

Oh we nearly forgot...

Don't worry about the packaging, we have ensured that it is carefully packed to protect it while its being delivered to you.

All our packaging material is cardboard so is 100% recyclable.

UNDERSTANDING YOUR PRODUCT

Table tops get lots of wear so its important to take good care of them.

All our furniture is made from natural materials and its important to understand some of the characteristics of these materials and what can affect them.

Environment

As with most woods, the hardwoods used in our products will react to their environment, specifically temperature and humidity which in the modern home will change through the seasons. As the products adapt to their environment the wood will shrink and expand as necessary.

Appearance

Oak is a beautiful timber and has been used for Centuries with a strong heritage in the UK, fashioned by nature you will find that grains, knots and colouring will vary on each piece making it unique.

Movement in the timber frames can cause hairline cracking on painted products between joints, this is all part of the product responding to its environment

Maintaining your product

We'd recommend that you avoid leaving anything on the surfaces for long periods of time especially if your furniture is exposed to direct sunlight. This should help you avoid any marks or rings appearing on the furniture.

We also recommend that place mats are used especially with any warm objects.

So you picked our Water based Lacquered finish

Lacquer is a strong and resilient finish which adds a surface of protection to your tops. To keep it in the best condition it's important to ensure all spills are cleaned up quickly, whether its water or that sneaky takeaway you treated yourself to.

To clean after use please use a small amount of warm water and a clean cloth, ensure the cloth is damp not wet. Please remove any excess water after with a clean dry cloth.

So you picked our Monocoat Oil finish

Monocoat oils are a bit special, that's why we picked them. They offer increased durability compared to other oils, benefits include water repellent helping to repel water and other household liquids for a time. It is still important to ensure all spills are cleaned up quickly.

This is all achieved through the clever technology used that allows the oil to penetrate the timbers surface and bonds with each wood fibre at a molecular level. The special waxes within help to repel stains and marks without creating a barrier so the wood can still look natural

To clean follow the same guidelines as our water based lacquer (above).

We also recommend the Monocoat Soap for regular cleaning, and the refresher oil to bring your finish back to new which should be applied every 12-24 months.
